CHORAL SOCIETY

ORGANIZED SATURDAY NIGHT AT HOME OF NEWCOMERS, DR. AND MRS. BRANDSTATER

Mrs. C. A. Brandstater of 401 W. Wilson avenue entertained the members of the Seventh-day Adventist choir, with other friends included, at her beautiful new home, Saturday night. An impromptu program was rendered consisting of a piano solo by Mrs. C. E. Swartsfager; vocal selections by Mrs. R. Nelson, Ernest MacDonald, and Miss Hazel Carr; a reading by Mrs. Ingle and a short speech by I. A. Ford.

Following these numbers, Mrs. Brandstater led out in the proposal and discussion of a plan to organize a choral society which should include all present as charter members. The idea met with hearty approval and Mrs. Brandstater was unanimously elected president with Mrs. E. Dunbar as secretary-treasurer. A committee consisting of Mrs. I. A. Ford, Miss Hazel Carr, Miss Helen M. Steele, Dr. Harrower and Mrs. D. Nelson was chosen to draft by-laws, etc., for the society which is to meet once a month for social and educational benefit.

At the close of the business discussion further entertainment was afforded by a couple of guessing contests. One of these required a knowledge of the terms employed in the rudiments of music, while the other consisted in guessing which of the persons present was represented by the numerous baby pictures displayed around the room. Refreshments were served and the evening was voted a decided success by all the guests. Those present were Drs. P. S. Kellogg, H. R. Harrower, W. J. Johnson; Mesdames P. S. Kellogg, H. R. Harrower, W. J. Johnson, C. E. Swartsfager, I. A. Ford, M. A. Hollister, E. Dunbar, M. Shaffer, B. O. Carr, J. N. Benedict, E. MacDonald, E. E. Shipley, C. H. Jones, R. Ingle, N. Simpson, D. Nelson; Misses Lolita Simpson, Helen M. Steele, Rosa Smith, Ida Van Steenberger, Bernice Hollister, Hazel Carr, Florence Morey; Messrs. R. Ingle, D. Nelson, C. H. Jones, C. E. Swartsfager, I. A. Ford, E. Dunbar, Ernest MacDonald, and the host and hostesses, Dr. and Mrs. C. A. Brandstater and sons. Five little tots in one corner of the room studied tempermental harmony among themselves.

L. A. Hart's Methods

L. A. Hart, a resident booster of our fair city, who is associated with W. H. Cook, veteran used car dealer of 1008 South Olive street, Los Angeles, says his success in selling so many cars to Glendale friends lies in the fact that his firm has taken time by the forelock and fixed its prices some time ago on the pre-war basis. Primarily, however, their past as well as present success has rested on a solid foundation, the established fact that all cars are carefully selected from among the most popular standard makes, then thoroughly rebuilt and refinished before they are sold. Also a guarantee accompanies every car that protects the buyer in every way.

Come From Portland

A. K. Findley and wife, who came here from Portland, Oregon, last May, and bought an acre with a large residence upon it at 434 West Doran, arrived Saturday to take possession. The house is to be vacated this week but Mr. Findley will make extensive repairs and alterations before he moves in. He was a prominent business man of Portland for a number of years.

POOL ROOM ACTION

More than twenty of Glendale's prominent business and professional men met at the City Hall Friday evening to discuss the proposed pool-hall proposition; to lay concrete plans for the establishment by the city of a Recreation Center, and also to set forth a plan of action that will unite and harmonize all factions of our people.

Several of Glendale's most prominent business men stated they wished to resent the insinuation that a majority of the business men of the community favored the opening of pool-halls, as they are confident that only a minority really favor them. Committees were appointed to call on the business men and give them an opportunity to protest against pool-hall permits.

In view of the fact that more than 1900 of our people have protested against pool-hall permits as against only about 125 favoring them it is not believed the City Trustees will ignore and over-ride the wishes of such a large majority and force the pool-halls on our people. However five committees were appointed to call on the five Trustees and show them that the proposed ordinance will be contrary to the wishes of a very large majority of Glendale's citizens. Some vigorously advocated resorting to the "recall" in the event the pool-halls are forced on us, but it was decided such drastic action would not be necessary.

Messrs. Lusby, Lindley, Kitterman, Lane and Heal were appointed a committee to outline plans for the establishment by the city of a Recreation Center to be under the supervision of a commission of five citizens to be appointed by the City Trustees, but who are not officials of the city. This plan has proven most satisfactory in the management of our Public Library.

Complete plans will be ready for suhmission to the Board at its next meeting, and the proposition will be rushed as speedily as possible in a desire to meet a need that is recognized by all.

The citizens named below, and others, attended and took part in the meeting:

M. J. McGrew, Roy D. King, O. A. Lane, Arthur G. Lindley, R. F. Kitterman, W. B. Kirk, W. F. Tower, C. D. Lusby, Thos. A. Wright, Mr. Heal, Mr. Chandler, H. A. Wilson, J. M. Banker, J. N. McGillis, Wm. Richardson, Revs. Edmonds, Crist, Rider and Ford.

J. N. McGILLIS.

SENATOR HARDING

MONTAVILLE FLOWERS GIVES HIS IMPRESSIONS ON FIRST MEETING

"I have never given my career national publicity, it is not conspicuous but it is consistent and will bear minute analysis."

This statement by Warren G. Harding stands out in my mind as the most characteristic thing in my interview with him August 16, 1920, and proves to my satisfaction the statement that has been made frequently that Senator Harding is a modest man.

I had never seen or met Senator Harding. In the primary campaign I had spent some four months in a sincere endeavor to promote the candidacy of General Leonard Wood and I was deeply disappointed when he did not receive the nomination. Upon my entrance to the interview, therefore, I was not prejudiced in favor of Senator Harding but the sensitive plate of my mind was ready to receive whatever impressions he might make upon it. I desire to set in order these impressions as they were made, coming as they did, thick and fast, because I know they will answer pertinent questions in the minds of many others who, like myself, have not had the privilege of knowing Senator Harding personally.

When I reached Marion I called the Senator's residence and told the man who answered the phone why I had come. Almost immediately Senator Harding himself was on the wire and told me that if I would come "between nine-thirty and a quarter of ten" he would be glad to see me. I found the offices of the Marion headquarters occupying a residence next door to the home of the Senator, with a line of automobiles in front and men from various states on the porches, and all the rooms occupied and busy. At the appointed time I was asked into the Senator's own room and found him

HARDING ON SPEAKING TOUR

TRIP INCLUDES MARYLAND, WEST VIRGINIA AND KENTUCKY; IN BALTIMORE TONIGHT

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

EN ROUTE TO BALTIMORE, WITH SENATOR HARDING, Sept. 27.—Leaving his front porch for the second time, Senator Harding today began a four-day speaking tour into Maryland, West Virginia, and Kentucky. On this trip Harding will make his first attack on outposts of the solid south. Later he will go into Kentucky a second time, also Tennessee, Missouri and Oklahoma.

Senator Harding will speak tonight in Baltimore, at the hall where President Wilson was first nominated. Harding and Governor Cox, the democratic candidate for presidency, will have lunch together and speak from the same platform on October 4 at Stiegel Grove, Ohio, according to plans agreed to by Senator Harding today.

WINTER STOPS MILITARY OPERATIONS

ANTI-BOLSHEVIK FORCES TODAY HAMMERING REDS ON THREE FRONTS; POLISH TROOPS AT GRODNO

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

LONDON, Sept. 27.—In what appears to be the last drive before winter stops military operations, anti-Bolshevik forces today were hammering the Reds on three fronts, according to official communiques received here. Polish troops occupied Grodno, an important fortress on the Polish boundary line, as established by the Versailles peace conference, a Warsaw communique announced.

General Wrangel's communique said his forces had taken Alaxandrovsk, and were approaching Dergiansk.

General Kahno, opposing the Bolsheviki in the region of the Don basin, reported his troops had taken three important towns and a portion of the basin.

WORLD SERIES TO START OCT. 5

GAMES ARE TO BE DIVIDED BETWEEN CITIES OF THE NATIONAL AND AMERICAN LEAGUE

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

CHICAGO, Sept. 27.—The first game of the world series will be played on the fifth of October in the city winning the American League pennant, Chicago or Cleveland, the National Baseball Commission meeting here decided today.

Three games will be playd in the American League city. The series will then be transferred to the National League City, where four games will be played, unless one club wins the series. If an eighth game is necessary, the club will then go to the American League city, and if a ninth is necessary, it will be played in the National League city.

BUTTE COUNTY AUDITOR ATTEMPTS SUICIDE

WARRANT ISSUED FOR HIS ARREST, CHARGING EMBEZZLEMENT; UNCONSCIOUS TODAY

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

DIXON, Cal., Sept. 27.—County Auditor A. H. Locey, of Butte county, is lying unconscious today from the effects of ether, believed to have been taken with suicidal intent, in a hotel here. A warrant, charging embezzlement of Butte county funds, was issued against Locey yesterday.

EMERGENCY FLEET SALES MISMANAGED

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 27.—With an announcement that sales of emergency fleet material and equipment are being mismanaged, Howard Cosgrove has resigned as district councellor for the board. Cosgrove says he was moved to resign because he was dissatisfied with changes being made in the personnel of the shipping board stationed in the northwest. "Unless the fleet corporation mends its ways," he said, "the government will find itself losers on account of present gross mismanagement of sales."

POSSIBLE PEACE IN CHINA

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

PEKIN China, Sept. 27.—The foreign ministry of the northern government today received an unconfirmed report that the rebel forces had occupied Canton. If correct, this development probably means a renewal of peace negotiations between the north and south of China, and bossibly the final unification of the country.

COAL STRIKE LOOMING IN OHIO

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

BRIDGEPORT, O., Sept. 27.—Indications today pointed to the materialization of the strike threat of 15,000 coal miners in the eastern Ohio field. Mine officials reported an insignificant proportion of their workers reported for duty when the mines opened today.

CASA VERDUGO M. E.

CONGREGATION SELL OLD BUILDING, WILL SOON ERECT LARGER STRUCTURE

The Casa Verdugo M. E. church building will be used only two more Sundays as a place of worship. After that it will be remodeled for a private residence. The Casa Verdugo congregation will meet in a temporary structure which has been erected on their new property for that purpose, until a new church building is completed.

The growth of organized Methodists in Glendale has been coincident with the growth of the city, though not so phenomenal. But it is unusual for a church to outgrow its bounds within nine years after organization. The present bungalow-church was dedicated in 1911, the congregation having been organized as a branch of the First Methodist church. At present there are over one hundred regular attendants of the Sunday School, so separate Sunday School class rooms are absolutely necessary, and the old building does not provide them.

Last spring the church purchased for $3500 four lots at the corner of Central avenue and Park Place, opposite the Central Avenue school building. All this space will not be needed for the new building, so the lower lot will be sold. The church will face Park Place, one block back from Central avenue. A main auditorium, surrounded by nine class rooms, is to be erected. Work on the new building will be started this fall, and it is hoped that it will be ready for dedication by Christmas. No contract for the building has been let.

The old church property was sold recently for $1500. This sum, together with subscriptions which have been raised, leaves a deficit of about $800 for the Sunday School rooms alone, which will cost about $5000. The church hopes to get $2,000 from the Centenary movement fund as a donation for the new auditorium.

Among those especially active in working for the new building are the pastor, Rev. Julius Soper, 1305 N. Maryland avenue, who has served at this post for five years; Dr. J. E. Eckles, George Murphy, John W. Cotton, H. J. Armsted, George Tyrrell and Lucius F. Drake.

Mrs. Steinmeyer

Mrs. Barbara Steinmeyer, aged sixty-nine years, passed away at her home, 309 North Louise street, Saturday, September 25. The deceased had been a resident of Glendale for eight years, having built the home in which she lived and passed away. She leaves to mourn for her three beloved daughters and two sons, Mrs. Mary A. Gould, Mrs. Frank S. Thomas and Mrs. Howard W. Perkin, William F. Steinmeyer and Paul H. Steinmeyer.

Funeral services are being conducted this Monday afternoon at the parlors of the Jewel City Undertaking Company. Interment at Forest Lawn Memorial Park.

Mrs. Hutton Returns

Mrs. Eva M. Hutton of 326 East Colorado arrived at home Saturday afternoon from an extended visit in Indiana, Illinois and Missouri. She left on June 30 and had a very pleasant journey, both going and coming. She visited her old home in Atlanta, Ill., a brother in Washington, the same state, also a brother of her late husband and S. E. Grant and wife in Chicago. The Grants formerly lived on Milford street in Glendale. Visits were also paid to relatives and friends in Indianapolis, and to a brother in St. Louis. She took medical treatment a good part of the time while gone for her back, which was severely wrenched in the accident a year ago last October near Santa Fe, when her husband was instantly killed and she so seriously injured that it was thought at first she would die, by their auto rolling down a steep hill. She says she benefited greatly by the treatment.

Loyal to Institution

The people are bound to be loyal to the public schools and universities of education, and now in turn it is right and proper for the heads of educational institutions to stand firm for giving to the young men and women a practical common sense education.

GLENDALE FIFTH

ONLY FOUR CITIES IN STATE SURPASSED HER IN VALUE OF AUGUST PERMITS

Glendale ranks fifth among the cities of California in value of building permits and sixth among cities of the west coast, only Los Angeles, San Francisco, Seattle, Long Beach and Oakland being ahead of it. The latter city, with more than 200,000 population, was only $155,000 ahead in value of permits, while San Diego, Berkeley, Santa Ana, Pasadena, San Jose, Riverside and Stockton, all larger than Glendale, some of them many times greater, limped along far behind.

Los Angeles was the second city in the entire nation in building during August, only New York exceeding it. Chicago was more than a million behind it. Detroit, Philadelphia, Boston, Pittsburg and Indianapolis followed in order. San Francisco was 14th and Seattle 19th. Only 21 cities had permits in excess of a million dollars.

Frank H. Dickman

Frank Henry Dickman, aged fifty-one years, passed away at his home, 632 East Harvard street, Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock, September 26, after an illness extending over many months. He leaves to mourn his loss, a devoted wife, May D. Dickman and two brothers, one living in Minnesota and one in Washington. The deceased was a member of Glendale lodge of Elks No. 1289.

Funeral services will be held at the Jewel City Undertaking parlors Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. W. E. Edmonds of the Presbyterian church officiating. Interment at Forest Lawn Memorial Park.

Report Hold Up

Andy McDonnell of South Maryland avenue and L. W. Grossman, living just south of the city, reported to the police that they were held up at Ivanhoe bridge last night by three men who jumped out of a big machine, ordered hands up and then went through their clothes. Finding only 20 cents in money they were so angered that they beat the boys up with their fists, then left them lying by the roadside as they sped away, taking Grossman's Swiss watch and glasses from him.

Auto Trip

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Clement took an auto trip out through Lankershim and Van Nuys and on to the end of Sherman Way to Owensmouth. Mr. Clement said he was greatly surprised at the wonderful development along this fine drive in the past six years. Roses and palms border it on both sides all the way, fruit orchards likewise, and intensive cultivation is practiced. There are many acres of beans, which are now being threshed, and melon fields are numerous. Late peaches are being picked.

AMENDMENT 12

STUDENTS LAUNCH CAMPAIGN FOR ITS PASSAGE TO "KEEP EDUCATION FREE"

Kenneth Beldin of Glendale sends the Evening News the following communication from Berkeley where he is attending the University:

Ten thousand students of the University of California at Berkeley, organizing by counties, have launched a campaign to secure the passage of Amendment Twelve, aimed at providing a permanent and steady income to meet the needs of a 200 per cent increase in enrollment during the last ten years at the state institution. Every county in the state is actively represented in the campaign, the results of which will be checked, on a competitive county basis, on a huge 21-foot map which is being erected on the campus.

Crowded classrooms and scarcity of instructors have stimulated the students to activity in the campaign, which is under the direction of the Associated Student Body. Eighteen hundred students at the Southern Branch of the University in Los Angeles, six hundred students at the professional schools in San Francisco, and five hundred students at the Farm School at Davis are joining in the campaign.

"Keep Education Free" is the slogan in the campaign, Amendment Twelve provides that four cents out of each dollar paid in taxes go to the support of the University.

THE OLD FAITH

"IS IT GOOD ENOUGH FOR NEW ERA?" QUERY OF PASTOR PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Rev. W. E. Edmonds preached from the text found in Jeremiah 6:9: "Thus saith the Lord, Stand ye in the ways, and see, and ask for the old paths, where is the good way, and walk therein, and ye shall find rest for your souls. But they said, We will not walk therein." We are living in a world of change. The world is not the same today; it will be different tomorrow. They tell us there is a new order; and the church is being challenged to meet this new order. But God is the same; Jesus Christ, love, heaven and hell, redemption are the same. They used to tell us our preaching would have to be different, the boys after the war would not stand for our old order. We are told we must "change our emphasis;" that there is a new order and must be a new program, that old things will no longer work. We are living in a tropical age of haste wherein all things germinate and grow with tremendous speed; people with bewildering eagerness devour any creed which seems new in this New Era.

They ask us to change our creed, and to put the soft pedal upon all belief of sin and punishment and redemption. But no man can be treated as righteous save as he is sheltered in the cleansing blood of the Lamb of God. This is the old faith, and it will work wonders in the redemption of mankind.

There is a new atheism. Not the atheism of Ingersoll, or of Charles Bradlough, denying God's existence, but an atheism denying His care for His world and counting Him only a great executive on a throne, who knows not our tears and pains, and has no time to listen to prayers; not a Father. Take such a god,—that is atheism. There is a new program of morals in worldly life. But without Jesus Christ you are lost!

There is a new vocabulary, new words: "Brotherhood!" "Unity!" No matter what, "Get together!" But what do you propose to tack on to those things? What do they really mean? We have no right to call "brother" him who denies our Christ.

People are now asking for what they can see. Though in living they constantly use faith in daily relationships, when it comes to the church they demand to be able to see. Is there anything in the old truth to meet the new conditions? Lloyd George has said, "We are living in the fluid moment of the world's history; the shape it now soon takes will remain." Now, education will not save it. We are facing conditions unspeakably difficult and mystifying. You can't get anywhere without recognition of God. What form is this fluid world going to take? The church has not measured up to its duty yet, nevertheless it is the best thing in the world: we know where we are headed, and the world does not. The church was purchased with the blood of the Son of God; if she have now no message the outlook is black indeed. But she has, praise God! the Everlasting Gospel of our Lord and Savior. He that believeth on Him hath everlasting life.

I have heard and seen the miracles of grace in transformed lives. You who have received these gifts of God, you are responsible to do the work of God. Put Jesus Christ at the head of all! I plead for a deeper consecration that works in ceaseless earnest labor. "Come now and let us reason together, saith the Lord: though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow; though they be red like crimson, they shall be as wool."

Only the AMPICO has ever successfully met such a searching test

Only the AMPICO has ever successfully met such a searching test as that to which the KNABE AMPICO Reproducing Piano was Friday night submitted in the joint comparison recital with Olga Steeb at Glendale High School.

It was a test of the KNABE AMPICO'S reproducing powers conducted under the most trying circumstances possible to conceive.

—after the critical audience had listened intently to the splendid performance of the great pianist —in the very midst of the spell she had cast over all —while the senses were keyed to the highest pitch

—the KNABE AMPICO Reproducing Piano then actually REPEATED, note for note, tone for tone, feat for feat, the magnificent masterpieces still vividly in mind!

—AND NOT ONE IN THE AUDIENCE COULD DETECT THE SLIGHTEST DISTINCTION BETWEEN ORIGINAL AND REPRODUCTION.

—It was but to reaffirm the facts established repeatedly by similar tests held in conjunction with many other world-famous pianists.

—and in every instance the KNABE AMPICO Reproducing Piano has demonstrated that it stands absolutely without a rival in the field of reproducing art.

THE KNABE AMPICO Reproducing Piano

The demonstration that was heard Friday night at the Glendale High School will be repeated for you in our Ampico room, at your pleasure—a demonstration identical in every detail with the one Friday night, except that the artist herself will not be present.

Still Work for Red Cross

The American Red Cross Society is one of a league of Red Cross organizations composed of thirty-two members, which has its administrative headquarters in Geneva, Switzerland. The majority of nations have active organizations in this form for relief work.

The fact that the Red Cross performs such important work during a war may have given many persons the idea that the organization has little to do when peace prevails. Nothing could be farther from the truth than such a conclusion.

The Red Cross has departments and supplies for giving relief in cases of flood, fire or in epidemics which get beyond the control of local organizations and health bodies, and for the promotion of better health conditions among the people, especially the poor.

The Red Cross not only rendered unexcelled service for the armies during the war, but it has continued this service in times of peace. The work which it is doing for sick and disabled soldiers and others is the continuance of service rendered during the war.

The American Red Cross workers won the plaudits of the world for their excellent work in Europe and in the United States. Long after the armistice was signed American money and supplies were distributed in the devastated districts of middle Europe by American workers who found that their efforts were even more needed than when fighting was in progress.

The Red Cross will have its fourth consecutive annual roll call from November 11 to 25, at which time the millions of persons in sympathy with the work of the organization in the United States will have the opportunity of continuing their support by the payment of one dollar each. The money will enable the Red Cross to carry on its work more effectively and to prepare for any emergency that may arise.

Club Women and Home

Two million five hundred thousand women members of the National Federation of Women's Clubs have voted, through the directors of their central organization, that the activities of the clubs shall be continued toward the improvement of the home.

Through wide co-operation between officers and members of the various organizations, it is planned to make plain to all the women in this country the best methods of buying household supplies, thrift in household management and the improvement of domestic science.

The membership of this great federation extends to every state and hamlet of the union. It is made up of women of the highest intelligence and public spirit. They are the sort who might be expected to be, and who are, deeply interested in politics and public affairs. In is interesting to note that their chief activity is directed to the betterment of the home, the study of what may be termed purely domestic matters.

These women know that the first essential of a well ordered social and political life for any nation is the well ordered home. It augurs well for the future of the country, that, however keen their interest in the superstructures of government and politics may be, their first concern is to make the foundations sound.

Speeding Fire Engine

Limiting the speed of fire apparatus is a reform well under way in the big cities. That smaller communities will adopt the plan is likely.

In the breakneck speed which has been customary in answering calls there is danger to the life of the people in the streets, and to the firemen also. The wear and tear on the machines represents a big financial loss, and frequently breakdowns result which put the apparatus out of commission just when it is needed most.

It has been found in cities where the experiment has been tried that no decrease in deficiency of service followed the reduction of speed. The nearest engines get to the scenes promptly anyway, and those which are more remote arrive in plenty of time and in good shape for action if held to a speed of twenty or twenty-five miles an hour.

Of course, where horses are used, the problem is not so serious, though it is a question whether safety and horseflesh have not been sacrificed unnecessarily. With the motor-driven vehicle the dangers in excessive speed are evident, and elimination seems the sane thing. Experts declare that twenty-five miles an hour going to the fire and fifteen returning will suffice anywhere for good service and make for safety.—Long Beach Telegram.

Is your check as good as "George Smith's money?" This query in the present day would undoubtedly mystify the average citizen. There was a period in the early days of the West and Middle West, however, when it would be more readily understood—and answered.

* * * *

A condition existed then, when many of the recently created Territories were suffering from a deficiency in metallic money and the lack of a proper system of "banks of issue." In 1839 two Scotchmen, George Smith and Alexander Mitchell, created a new form of money in Wisconsin by obtaining from the Legislature of that Territory, a charter for a marine and fire insurance company, under which charter, although it contained a special restriction against banking privileges, the company advertised "to receive money on deposit and transact other moneyed operations."

* * * *

"Certificates of deposit" were issued in sums ranging from $1 to $10, and were much in the form of bank bills. As there was a great popular need for something of this nature in the form of money, these certificates were soon in circulation through many of the adjoining Territories. They were redeemed in specie at the central office of the firm in Milwaukee and at agencies in other Western cities in New York exchange, at the then current rate.

* * * *

The "George Smith Money" was a good money, and was freely accepted through that section of the country so long as any of it was outstanding. It was always promptly paid upon presentation. The mystery of the possible question, "Is your check as good as 'George Smith's Money?'" is dissipated, but the question remains: "Is it as good?"

* * * *

A satisfactory reply can easily be made possible. Opening a commercial or savings account at either the Brand Boulevard Branch or the Glendale Avenue Branch of The Los Angeles Trust & Savings Bank is the method, provided a healthy balance is maintained. Your check will always be promptly paid upon presentation. You will then be in a position to reply in the affirmative to such an inquiry as "Is your check as good as 'George Smith's Money?'"

* * * *

There are features of these Branch Banks that will meet your every financial need. You are invited to consult freely Mr. F. H. Vesper, Assistant Vice-President of the Glendale Branches; D. H. Smith, Assistant Manager, Brand Boulevard Branch; Mr. Herman Nelson, Assistant Manager, Glendale Avenue Branch, or the writer.

standing and ready to receive me, and these are the impressions of him as they came.

He greeted me as if he had known me as a friend for years and immediately said that he had known me for fifteen years, and "especially in the primary campaign," which gave us both a hearty laugh. Youth, far more than his pictures reveal, was my first impression. There is a rich vitality of skin and a clear vigor of the eye and a flexibility and alertness of body which one might expect in a man of forty. This was a pleasant surprise and the longer I talked with him, the more I felt sure of his physical abilities to meet the strain of the campaign and the arduous work of the presidency. I have not seen a photograph that does him justice or read an article that gives a proper idea of his youthful vitality.

Poise, holding himself well in hand, but extremely responsive to change of subjects and mental atmosphere; approachable, democratic, friendly—not secretive and not thrusting himself unduly upon you—these qualities were immediately apparent. He is indeed a typical Ohioan. Being a Buckeye myself, it has always seemed to me that there is something a little more open and friendly in a Buckeye, native and reared in the state, than in the native of any other state. I believe that when Senator Harding becomes president of the United States his spirit will immediately clear the atmosphere and soothe away any unfriendly feeling which European peoples and their representatives may have toward us. One simply cannot see and talk to the man without feeling the richness of the native goodness of his heart.

Senator Harding knows his ground. He fills you with confidence, which increases as you speak with him. Of two things I am sure; he grasps in detail the general situation of affairs in the United States, and sees the exact position which the United States now holds on the chart of the nations of the world. Best of all, I believe that he has thought out carefully the course which, as chief executive, he will take. His poise and self-possession probably come from that.

There is every reason why he should feel this assurance, having had ample preliminary experience in business, in public affairs and in office. He has been for six years a senator of the United States, on the Foreign Relations Committee, and has seen in detail the kaleidoscopic procession of events; this fact raises his qualifications infinitely above those of his opponent. Indeed, as one canvasses all the requirements of the time and the place, he is forced to the conclusion that Senator Harding's nomination was a rich and timely choice.

Senator Harding realizes the surprise which his nomination gave the country and it was in connection with the discussion of this fact that he used the opening sentence of this statement. "I have never given my career national publicity; it is not conspicuous but it is consistent and will bear analysis." "I really did not want to be a candidate," he said, and he expressed himself as having been ready instantly to support the nominee of the convention; he also expressed his deep satisfaction at the fine spirit and understanding of the others who sought the nomination in now coming to his full support. Without a suggestion of boasting he knows that he will win in November and said, "I have never had the least doubt about the result of the campaign."

Senator Harding makes an impression of individuality such as one expects a man to make who has attained to his distinction, and that individuality is highly pleasing and satisfactory. I cannot but recall the impressions made upon me by some other great men whom I have met in the same way. I had some acquaintance with William McKinley, whose individuality now occupies such a distinct place in American life. It is true that Senator Harding greatly resembles William McKinley. He has the same reserve, but it is a reserve of tenacious strength. Any one who thinks that Senator Harding as president will be easily swayed against his convictions will be greatly mistaken. He is of the type that gladly welcomes the counsel of other men but he will pass it through a judicial mind well stayed by experience and ethical perception. Senator Harding is more aggressive than was William McKinley, is quicker to grasp the full range of a topic, and quicker and more positive to express himself. He has the same piercing eye of McKinley, but it is larger in size and darker in color, and it looks out from the same kind of heavy black eyebrow; and, like McKinley, his eye has extreme kindness, and besides, a depth of humor.

I once called upon Grover Cleveland at Princeton, after he had served his second term, to invite him to deliver some addresses at the University of Michigan, at Indianapolis, at Cincinnati and other points. Although he declined to meet the request, he did it in a gracious manner and there is something about Warren G. Harding that reminded me of that interview. What I am trying to say is: Senator Warren G. Harding is a man of big dimensions and impressive personality. While serving as chairman of the Speakers' Bureau of the Progressive Party in 1913-14, I was intimately associated with Theodore Roosevelt at the national headquarters of that party in New York. I have had occasion to call upon Thomas B. Reed of Maine, derisively styled "Czar Reed" because of his personal force. At Washington, in 1918, I had interviews with the Earl of Reading, Lord Chief Justice of England, Special Ambassador to the United States; with Andrew Tardeau, Special Commissioner of France to the United States; with De Cartier, Minister of Belgium—all of these are men whose positions mark them as powerful individuals. I received from none of them a finer impression of poise, of distinction and resources of power than I did from Senator Harding.

He has the confidence of mastery. He is making a front porch campaign not because he fears to meet the people or does not wish to meet the people. When the people indicate clearly that they desire to see him and want him to come to them, he will go out to them. His campaign by the front porch method is simply in harmony with his character of modesty and sincerity. I do not think Senator Harding will make a spectacular president, but I think he will score one hundred per cent in wisdom and efficiency every day of the week.

There is nothing diminutive about Senator Harding. If his name were James, you might think of calling him Jim, but you would never think of calling him Jimmy. I imagine he was called by his full name, Warren, when he was a boy. The name has a weight and strength that fit him. Nobody ever heard McKinley called Billy. It was always William. Senator Harding gives you the same call for respect.

He has a fine sense of humor, which was shown at many points. We discussed the League of Nations and I told him how General Wood had characterized it. "The League of Nations is an American child born while its parents were temporarily residing abroad. It got its first lessons from its foreign nurses, the English, the French, the Italians and the Japanese. Then its parents brought the child to America, but the Americans refused to admit it into the family until it could speak the language of the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States."

"Did General Wood get that off? Clever!" said Senator Harding, with a Lincolnesque twinkle of his eye.

We discussed the question of Woman's Suffrage. He has expressed himself so clearly and forcibly upon that subject that it is unnecessary to repeat his favorable position on it. A certain letter which he had written to an inquirer from Tennessee, however, had brought delegations to his door representing both sides of the question. Late in the evening of the day before my arrival in Marion the pro-Suffrage delegation came; and the anti-Suffrage delegation was due to arrive still later. They did not arrive, however, but they were upon the Senator this morning before he had left the breakfast table, and I saw them withdraw at about nine forty-five. His time is fully taken, but I do not believe that any problem will be presented which will give him an hour's indecision.

I had a delightful day, and I am going into the campaign fortified and assured that our candidate is exactly the man of the hour, qualified in character and experience for the enormous and complicated task of recreating the conditions of peace. Senator Harding is not a theorist. He will begin his ascent with constructive work, right upon the plane where the world now is, keeping his eye upon the plane where it ought to be, and that is the exact method of the statesman. Senator Harding will follow the lines of practical business and practical government, and will not be led into the theoretical paths of the pure idealist.

Republicans all, and all other citizens who desire to see the United States come back to the old confidence and success characteristic of the Nation, may vote for Senator Harding with absolute assurance. He will not only restore the soul of our own nation, but I believe he will find a way to help the world in our association with other nations so far beyond the possibilities of the Wilsonian League of Nations that his election, in all time to come, will be a source of boundless joy and thanksgiving.

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA NEWS

OAKLAND, Sept. 27.—The city of Antioch's suit to enjoin some 300 upper Sacramento river valley farmers from using Sacramento river water for irrigation purposes was to have been resumed here today. Illness of witnesses for the defense necessitated a postponement last week.

MARTINEZ, Sept. 27.—Maher Singh, Hindo, probably will be sentenced today to hang. The death penalty has been asked for him. Convicted of the murder of a countryman on Angel Island, Maher was to be taken before Judge A. B. McKenzie here today. The Hindu was alleged to have shot and killed three countrymen as they slept, but he was tried for the murder of only one. The crime is said to have have been the outgrowth of a dispute over ownership of crops.

OAKLAND, Sept. 27.—Retirement pensions have been granted to three school teachers whose combined service in Alameda county schools totaled 117 years. They are Josephine Lemon, 64, who taught school for 44 years; Ida Coady, 65, whose service extended over a continuous period of 38 years; and J. C. Gilson, 76, a teacher in this county for the past 35 years.

Filth on Walls

A lady who claims to have seen considerable of the world and who has a pretty good idea of what constitutes a clean kept city, visited the Evening News a few afternoons hence and put in complaints as to the untidily kept condition of the business buildings at the region of the sidewalks. The lady making the complaint resides in an apartment on Brand boulevard, and therefore claims to be in a position to know all about the whys and wherefores of this filthy condition referred to above.

One merchant was asked why he did not flush the filth away from the base of the walk at the sidewalk by the use of a water hose. He replied: "I am waiting for rain." This man, like others, had been waiting for five months for rain to do the flushing.

The lady in question recalled instances when filth in the most objectionable form had been allowed to lie along side of mercantile buildings on Brand boulevard for several days without any attempt being made for its removal. She said she called the attention of a city marshal to the objectionable condition, but there was no change in the conditions.

The lady requested that her name should not be used in the paper, but she would be pleased to have her name given to the health officer or any person in the city who is at all responsible for permitting these filthy conditions to exist.

THE RIGHT KIND OF TREES

"He who plants a tree plants hope," says a line of a poem frequently quoted by lovers of arboreal beauty. But he who plants the wrong kind of tree will see his hopes blasted.

In one city where tree planting is carried on enthusiastically, the forestry commission set out a row of poplar trees along a main highway. They were not the slim Lombardys, but a native variety of wider spread. They grew rapidly, and were left to continue their growth for 15 years. They made the street a thing of beauty, and screened the homes in a delightful privacy.

Then the roots began to interfere with the sewers. First one spot was flooded, then another. Then came an edict from the city engineers that all those trees must be cut down. Now the street looks like devastated France, and another 10 or 15 years must pass before it regains any of its former attractiveness.

Trees should be planted for permanency, care being taken to select such varieties as will not work mischief with water and sewer systems, and which are free from insect pests. There is plenty of reliable information to be had on these matters. The private citizen will find it to his lasting advantage to seek it, and the taxpayers have a right to demand that city officials be equally well informed and that none of the city funds go into trees which must be cut down just as they attain true beauty.

NO MORE ORPHANAGES

The placing of children in private homes instead of institutions when their parents are dead or unable to care for them increases in popularity. In one city where the practice has been growing it has been found that twice as many children are being cared for annually as could be when they had to be housed in institutions.

There are three classes of homes sought for these friendless little ones. First, the wealthy home where people wish to adopt the child outright. Second, the well-to-do which takes the children without assuming the obligations of adoption, but gives the child the benefit of home training and schooling until he is old enough to shift for himself. The third is the home where all the other qualifications for the proper training of the child are present but the funds are lacking to take care of the extra burden. In such cases a small fee, sufficient to pay for the expenses of the child, is allowed to the family. In no case is a child placed with any household which is not entirely self-supporting so far as its own members are concerned.

It is a pleasant commentary on the kindness of the world that this work is progressing so satisfactory. No institution can give the child what he gets even in the plainest home life, and it is hoped that as the facts are better understood the orphanage will vanish in a world of kindly homes.
